Matthew 28:-7

If Easter is about anything, it is about the Good News that comes out of a graveyard. Easter, one of the biggest and one of the most significant (if not the biggest and the most significant) observances of the Christian faith comes out of a borrowed tomb, of all places. Easter, with all of the joy and all of the hope that it brings, was set in a graveyard. It did not occur at the banks of the Jordan River with the heavens opening up and the Spirit of God descending like a dove and the voice of God thundering forth, but in, of all places, a lonely graveyard. It did not take place on the Mount of Transfiguration or in the busy streets of Jerusalem amidst the cheering crowds of Palm Sunday but in a lonely graveyard. If Easter is about anything, it is the announcement and celebration of the Good News that love conquers hate, right conquers wrong, and nonviolence defeats violence. It is the message that good, though seemingly always on the run and on the ropes, can still conquer evil, and that holiness, without compromising itself or stooping to use the methods of the opponent, can still defeat sin. If the fact that all of this Good News comes out of a graveyard seems strange, let me remind you that Christianity is a strange faith.

To begin with, its premise is the strange assertion that a God whose greatness and magnitude is beyond comprehension, is concerned about, cares for, and loves puny, insignificant human beings so much that to save us this God became one with us and one of us. And if that sounds strange, listen to this! Christianity would have you believe not only that God became a man but also that God became a poor man—he was born in a stable to poor parents and an oppressed people in one of the smallest countries of the world. When he was born, angels sang not to the high priest and the religious leaders but to lowly shepherds. And if that sounds strange, listen to this! Christianity would have you believe that this God, being born a man, associated with fishermen, tax collectors, prostitutes, and all kinds of what we would call "lower class, common people," and "sinners."

And if that sounds strange, listen to this! Christianity would have you believe that when Jesus, the God-man, rode into Jerusalem as a king, he rode not in a chariot but on a donkey and that he was greeted not with trumpets but with palms. His army consisted, not of trained soldiers, but of ordinary poor men and women, girls and boys. Whoever heard of a king riding a donkey, without armed soldiers, without royal robes, without blasting trumpets?

And if that sounds strange, listen to this! Christianity would have you believe that even though he could have called ten thousand angels to destroy the world and set him free, Jesus allowed himself to be beaten and bruised and judged in the kangaroo courts of ancient Palestine and then to be crucified between two thieves, like one of the worst of criminals.

And if that sounds strange, listen to this! This same Jesus, who opened blinded eyes and cut loose stammering tongues, who healed the sick and raised the dead, and who calmed raging seas claimed that it would be Calvary, with all of its pain and shame, that would glorify and exalt him. It was this same Jesus who said, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." So then, when one considers how strange the Christian faith is anyway, it's not strange after all that the Good News it has for all of humankind comes from a graveyard.

Just what is this Good News that comes out of a graveyard? Well, the first thing that the angel at the tomb told the

Avery, II

To the beloved saints of the General Baptist family and all who love the Lord, the work, witness, worship, ministry, and mission of the Lord:

"Grace, mercy, and peace from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord" (1 Timothy 1:2b, NKJV).

Throughout His earthly ministry, Jesus had a knack for glorifying common things and common people. He defended the defenseless, healed the afflicted, received outcasts, ate with sinners, delivered the downtrodden, elevated the oppressed, gave worth to women, loved the lepers --- you name it, Jesus did it. He shook up the foundation of political correctness and religious self-piety.

Because of Jesus, many insignificant things took on new significance: light, salt, sparrows, lilies, bread and wine, a crown of thorns, an old rugged cross, and a borrowed tomb. Nothing was too small and nobody was too insignificant to merit the attention of our Lord. This truth is manifested as spring begins to break forth in its divinely ordained splendor. New life appears in all of its colorful glory. The handiwork of God once again provides a marvelous array of greenery, pageantry, and imagery.

In all of this, the seemingly insignificant common dandelion will make its presence felt. The dandelion is interesting. It will grow where nothing else will. It is not prejudice, picky, nor persnickety about where it will grow. It will grow in the yard of the rich or the poor. The dandelion is not concerned about the race, religion, culture, creed, or political preference of the yard's owner. It will grow wherever it can take root.

The amazing thing about the dandelion is its ability to persevere --- to rise above its surroundings. No matter how high the grass grows or how dry the ground becomes, it perseveres. The dandelion, much to the dismay of many gardeners, will rise above it all!

Some people are like that. They rise above it all. In the midst of discouragement and troubles, they RISE!

- Distress and criticism? They RISE!
- Limited resources and a succession of failures? They RISE!
- Red seas in front, pharaohs in the back, mountains on the side? They RISE!
- Hungry lions, flaming furnaces, high walls, ungrateful murmurers? They RISE!

They rise above it all because, like the dandelion, they understand that nothing can keep them down when they reach up for God's sunshine. They refuse to be smothered and bound by circumstances. The dandelion not only adds color to the drab places of earth. It eventually scatters seeds, and the seeds eventually bear fruit.

Our convention is similar to the dandelion. It has been able to RISE ABOVE IT ALL. It's fruitful ministry through varied objectives, including State Missions, has often been overlooked and unappreciated. But through it all, the fruit of our convention's labor has provided color in drab places for many who are outcast and undernourished.

Through it all, our convention continues to scatter seeds that bear fruit for ministry through Christian Education, Missions, and Benevolence. Through it all, our convention scatters seeds that bear fruit for ministry, which Convinces the Unconvinced to be Convinced. Your prayers and support through the years have made this possible. Like the dandelion, our convention continues to RISE ABOVE IT ALL!

Please continue to be good stewards of this ministry. Rise above the tendency to assume that all is well. Refuse to be smothered by daily routines and "busyness" that may not always glorify God & edify others. Abhor the rumors that seek to pronounce the death sentence on a heritage and legacy that has stood the test of time.

Put off the fabric of being a spectator and put on the garment of being a participant. Experience and reflect the power of Jesus' resurrection even when the death sentence has been pronounced. Nothing and nobody will keep us down because we serve God who is able, willing, and available to lift us up. And if God be for us ...!

Encourage your church, ministry, association, and community to support our convention, the objectives, and particularly State Missions. I am looking forward to seeing and hearing from you soon. "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen" (Philippians 4:23, NKJV).

Football and basketball coaches and players claim that most ball games are won or lost in the fourth quarter. Indeed, many games are decided in the last few minutes-or even seconds. Conditioning, ability, alertness, endurance, strategy, and game plan all coalesce in the waning moments of an athletic encounter to let the real winner be known. We have come to this kind of time.

For many people, life is lost in the fourth quarter of play. For some people, life loses meaning even earlier. We know that the grim specter of death stalks us all. With all our modern medical and surgical techniques, we still have not stopped people from dying. The sting of death and the seemingly overwhelming victory of the grave could make all of us feel that we are destined to lose in the end.

The final, authentic word of the Bible is not the pang of death, however, but the good news of resurrection. Rather than despairingly reporting that life is a long day's journey into night, the Bible declares that through Jesus Christ, life is a long night's journey into day! The message of the Bible ends on a glorious note of affirmation-Jesus Christ has risen from the dead! If you by faith know this truth deep in your own heart and life, whenever the waning moments of the fourth quarter come for you, you will be a winner.

women was "Fear not." We have become very fearful these days. We lock ourselves in our homes behind four and five locks, wrought-iron gates, and barred windows. Not only are we prisoners in our homes but the fear of the violence of the streets holds our minds captive and keeps our spirits bound when we venture out. We are afraid of each other. We fear our spouses, our children, our parents, and other relatives. We are threatened by our employers, skeptical of our associates and colleagues, and afraid to trust our friends. We have forgotten that God's Word tells us to "Fear not!" God lives and God still watches over his own. If God is for us, who then can prevail against us? Therefore we need fear no power, force, or opposition; no sickness, circumstance or condition; no person (black or white, male or female); no angel or demon or principality; no height and no depth; nothing present and nothing to come. Fear not. We are more than conquerors through Christ Jesus who loves us. Fear not. "For he whom the Son sets free is free indeed." Fear not. In every condition—in sickness, in health; In poverty's vale, or abounding in wealth; At home and abroad; on the land, on the sea,

The second statement the angel made to the women was "He is not here; for he is risen." And that's certainly good news. Our Lord was lied about, but lies couldn't hold him down. He is risen! Our Lord was hated, but hate couldn't hold him down. He is risen! His opponents were jealous of him, but jealousy couldn't hold him down. He is risen! Jesus was persecuted, but persecution couldn't hold him down. He is risen! He was slandered, but slander couldn't hold him down. He is risen! In the end, he was killed, but not even death, the grave, and all the powers of hell and the forces of darkness could hold him down. He is risen! Because he lives, truth lives, hope endures, love triumphs, and virtue is justified. Because he lives, integrity is legitimated, honesty has overcome, righteousness is proven, and sanctification is empowered. Because he lives, holiness is real, salvation has come, grace is all-sufficient, and mercy is invincible. Most of all, because he lives, we live also. "Therefore, if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away; behold, all things have become new."

Then, third, the angel told the women, "Tell his disciples that he is risen and that he goeth before you into Galilee." That's why we can walk by faith rather than by sight. We know not only that our Lord walks with us but that he also goes before us. I don't know about you, but I am a witness that if you trust his promises, the Lord will go before you to straighten out situations before you get to them. He will go before you into a church meeting, and by the time you get there, he will have smoothed the ruffled waters. I know that it gets rough sometimes, but that same Jesus who sends you into the storm is also able to go before and smooth the rough, make straight the crooked, exalt the valleys, and level off the mountains.

You say that nothing of significance ever happened in a graveyard? I say unto you that humankind's greatest discovery occurred not when the atom was split or when we learned to harness and channel the power of electricity. Neither did it take place in a school or laboratory. Our greatest discovery occurred when a few women went to a graveyard looking to anoint the dead body of a good man and discovered a living Lord with a glorified body and with the keys to hell and death and life and eternity in his hands. The greatest battle that humankind ever fought was not at Waterloo, Gettysburg, or Hiroshima. Our greatest battle was fought in a lonely graveyard when Jesus Christ took on death, hell, and the demonic.

The Good News that I have come to announce to you is that Jesus won! He is the victor now, the winner henceforth, and the champion forevermore. He is King of kings, and he is Lord of lords. The greatest pronouncement that was ever made to humankind did not originate at the United Nations or in the Oval Office at the White House. It came, rather, from a graveyard when the angel of the Lord spoke to several women and said, "Fear not ye; for I know that ye seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here; for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and behold, he is going before you into Galilee; there you will see him."

So then it was not only in the deed of the cross but also in all that came out of a graveyard that first Easter morning that shows once again that "God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; and base things of the world, and the things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are." And so from a lonely graveyard comes a message that still gladdens the hearts of people everywhere who hear it—He lives! He lives! Glory, hallelujah! He lives!

We have come to witness the fourth month, April, of the New Year. Usually Easter comes in this month when the Resurrection of Jesus Christ receives more emphasis. Luke 24:13-35 records the experience of two persons, walking with Jesus Christ after His resurrection. How the meaning of the times in which they find themselves changes as they walk and talk with the Risen Lord. He removes the "scales" from their eyes so that they begin to understand that such a death was needed. He explains the scriptures to them. He lifts them to a higher dimension in the walk of life. For at their invitation He tarries with them, takes bread and blesses it and breaks, and gives to them. Now

Church members sign covenants requiring them to participate in small groups. There are a couple of other phenomena that occur in the small groups. The first is bonding, so that people feel "plugged-in" to these generally large or mega-churches. "Small groups are the most effective way of closing the back door of your church" they know Him and He has quickened a fire within their hearts, and with this zeal they go forth to find the others to tell them. "The Lord is Risen indeed..." and the things He has done.

Walking, talking, tarrying, eating, fellowshiping with the Risen Lord Jesus Christ will open our eyes even more to Who He is as portrayed in the scriptures and keep a fire within our hearts to live in and for Him and to tell others about him. For He is alive and sustains us, regardless of the times in which we live.

He Lives

I serve a risen Savior, He's in world today;
I know that He is living, whatever men may say;
I see His hand of mercy, I hear His voice of cheer,
And just the time I need him He's always near.

In all the world around me I see His loving care,
And tho my heart grows weary I never will despair;
I know that He is leading thru all the stormy blast,
The day of His appearing will come at last.

Rejoice, rejoice, O Christian, lift up your voice and sing
Eternal hallelujahs to Jesus Christ the King!
The hope of all who seek Him, the help of all who find,
None other is so loving, so good and kind.

Chorus
He lives, He lives, Christ Jesus lives today!
He walks with me and He talks with me
Along life's narrow way.
He lives, He lives, salvation to impart!
You ask me how I know He lives: He lives within my heart.

Notification to "Inactive" Church Members

For many, many years, (CHURCH NAME) neglected to keep its membership rolls up-to-date. Since there were too many households to visit personally, the (CHURCH NAME) sent letters to those who did not fulfill the requirement of an active member. The (CHURCH NAME) wanted to encourage inactive members to return to worship and congregational life, so the tone of the letters were as welcoming and sensitive as possible. The (CHURCH NAME) also wanted, however, to be straightforward and clear about the issue of membership.

The following process was followed at (CHURCH NAME) and is shared with others in the hope that it will assist other congregations who are dealing with the "sticky" issue of inactive members and removal from membership rolls.

A computer printout, listing all persons who had not communed or made a contribution of record for at least one year.

- A small group of persons should be chosen who knew the membership well to carefully review the list and delete the names from the inactive list of those who had unusual circumstances (college students, shut-ins, etc.).
- Church staff reviewed the remaining names. If in doubt, persons were retained.

• Inactive Letter #1 •

(Sent to local inactive persons)

Dear _____,

We miss you! Our records indicate that you have not shared in worship with us for at least a year. Therefore, the (CHURCH NAME) has placed your name on the roll of inactive membership on (date). This action does not remove you from our prayers and concern. Any time you call we will seek to minister to you faithfully as the church has done in the past. Inactive members are not eligible to vote in church meetings or to hold church office, but we encourage you not to lose touch with the fellowship.

Please check the area most appropriate for your situation and return this page to the church office using the enclosed envelope.

_____ If you wish to remain a member of (CHURCH NAME) welcome back! We would like an opportunity to visit with you and find ways to encourage your active membership in this congregation. Please give us some possible times that would be good for us to visit with you:

_____ If you have found another church home, please know you will be missed. However, we are happy to know you are being nurtured by another church family.

We believe things will change for you and you will be interested in becoming active in your church again. When that happens, you may request to be returned to the active roll, and upon reaffirmation of the membership and renewed participation in the worship activities of this local church, this may be done. We look forward to hearing from you.

• Inactive Letter #2 •

(Sent to all whose names were removed)

Dear _____,

We had hoped to hear from you! Because you have not responded to the August letter from the (CHURCH NAME) and because you have not participated in the life of the church for at least a year, your name has been removed from the active membership of church name.

However! . . . Because our desire is to have you involved in the worship and ministry of the church, please know you can be restored to the membership roster at any time should you desire to become active.

A life of faith is certainly more than having your name on a membership list. It is about worshipping, studying God's Word, serving in the name of Christ, and receiving the nourishment of the Lord's Supper. It's about gathering regularly with other sisters and brothers of the faith. That is what is important!

If and when you are ready to commit yourself to active involvement at (CHURCH NAME), it would be our joy to welcome you back into membership.

Please feel free to contact me should you have any questions. The (CHURCH NAME) will always be open to you! ■

Reasons why a member should be removed to inactive status:

- unknown—a member no longer attends and cannot be contacted by mail, email or phone.
- Member has not attended the congregation for more than a year and has not contributed either financially or in service to the church.
- The person attends another congregation, but your congregation has never received a request for transfer.
- The person is attending a church affiliated with another denomination, and no longer gives to your congregation or participates in your congregation's worship.

one night a week and personally interviewed every person who came to join his church. What does this tell us about the role of the pastor in dealing with the issue of meaningful church membership? Maybe pastors should interview every individual who desires church membership. This is not opposed to training other church memberships to participate in some steps of the membership process, but it is ultimately the church's pastors who are accountable before God for that particular congregation. Pastors have to both model meaningful church membership (as they should model the Christian life in general) and labor to preserve meaningful church membership insofar as is humanly possible.

Justices' ruling upsets NAACP

Group aims to protect minority voters

Wed, Mar. 11, 2009

Dan Kane – N&O Staff Writer

The North Carolina NAACP blasted the U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday for its interpretation of the federal Voting Rights Act, saying the decision was a “direct blow” to the state's efforts to heal the “racist wounds of the past.”

The Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision issued Monday, found that the Voting Rights Act did not apply to legislative districts that are less than 50 percent minority. As a result, state lawmakers will have to refashion districts in the Wilmington area so that Pender County is not split between two districts.

The Rev. William Barber, president of the North Carolina chapter of the NAACP, said the decision ignores the troubled history in that part of the state. In 1898, white supremacist mobs came to Wilmington, which was governed by a “Fusionist” coalition of black and white council members. The mobs drove out the elected leaders, burned down a black-owned newspaper and killed at least 14 blacks. “Somebody's really got to examine this from the perspective that people don't really know the history,” he said. “They don't know that Pender County was separated [from New Hanover County] to make it an all-white county.”

The U.S. Supreme Court's more conservative members found that a House district that state lawmakers created to increase the likelihood of black representation violated the state's constitutional goal of keeping counties whole. House District 18 includes parts of Pender and New Hanover counties, but its black voting population is just under 40 percent. Therefore, the court found, the district could not be protected by the Voting Rights Act.

The U.S. Supreme Court's dissenting members said the majority had misinterpreted the act. Such a narrow interpretation, they said, forces minorities to be packed into majority-minority districts. While that guarantees some minority-supported candidates will be elected, it diminishes their opportunity to form coalitions with white voters in other districts, the justices said. Barber and Al McSurely, the NAACP's legal redress committee chairman for North Carolina, said the decision was strictly partisan and intended to reverse the momentum that allowed Democrat Barack Obama to win the presidential vote in North Carolina in November. They said their next move was to petition Congress to amend the Voting Rights Act so that it protects districts with a sizable, if not majority, percentage of minority voters.

It's time to file various tax returns once again. Among the tax deadlines you may be required to meet in 2009 are the following:

Tax time

April 15

» Tax return due.

Your 2008 income tax return is due, unless you file for an extension until Oct. 15.

» File for extension. If you want an automatic extension of time to file your 2008 tax return, file Form 4868. Filing the form gives you until Oct. 15 to file your return. To avoid a penalty, however, be sure to pay any tax that was due on April 15.

» Individual Retirement Accounts or Roth IRAs. This is the deadline for making contributions to IRAs or Roth

IRAs for tax year 2008.

» Estimated tax payment. Your first-quarter estimated tax payment for 2009 is due.

» State tax returns. If you are required to file a state tax return, it is probably due -- but check with your state to be certain. Many states automatically extend the filing time for those who have filed for a federal extension.

» Household employers. If you paid cash wages of $1,500 or more in 2008 to a household employee, file Schedule H (Form 1040) with your income tax return and report any employment taxes by April 15.

June 15

» Filing deadline. If you're a U.S. citizen or resident alien living and working (or on military duty) outside the U.S. and Puerto Rico, file Form 1040 and pay any tax, interest and penalties due. You can file for an extension until Oct. 15.

» Estimated taxes due. Your second-quarter estimated tax payment (using Form 1040-ES) for 2009 is due. Sept. 15

» Estimated tax due. Your third-quarter estimated tax payment (using Form 1040-ES) for 2009 is due

Oct. 15

» Income tax return due. Your 2008 income tax return is due if you filed an extension request using Form 4868. Dec. 31

» Deduction deadline. The last date to make payments that can be deducted from your 2009 return. (IRS) ■

American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. President Obama has signed the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act into law. Moving through Congress in less than four weeks, the $787 billion new law, which contains nearly $300 billion in tax relief, sets in motion a wave of direct spending and tax incentives intended to jump start the U.S. economy out of recession.

The 4 reasons why people say they don't go to church.

1. The church is not relevant to what is going on in their lives.
2. Never have been invited.
3. Mistaken notion about the church is only after their money.
4. They believe that the church is insincere.

Walking By Faith...

leads to spiritual growth and fitness

By Jennifer Harris, The Warren Record

The Walking By Faith Exercise Group of Olive Grove Missionary Baptist Church celebrated its first anniversary on Jan. 29, as well as birthdays for two of its members, Christine Hill and Beverly Gardner. Hill, the most senior of the group, had turned 91 earlier in the month proving that it's never too late to take care of your health.

Led by Carolyn Hawkins, the 14-member group gathers two mornings a week for sessions focusing on worship for 30 minutes then another half-hour or so of exercise. Individual members of the group, comprised mostly of women from Olive Grove and other churches, go at their own pace, but Hawkins said most are comfortable working out to a two-mile video the group watches.

"We have a good time," Hawkins said. "God is the center. This helps you to become strong spiritually."

Hawkins, who has always made fitness a part of her life, said she believes exercise brings balance to the body, mind and spirit. She began the exercise program last year and received assistance from the Warren County Health Department, Health Promotions program, which helped the church establish a marked walking trail for church members and residents of the community.

The bi-weekly gatherings give members a chance to speak about what's on their minds and to share poems and testimony. Their prayer focuses on such issues as faith, hope, forgiveness and peace. This spiritual sharing combined with exercise motivates the members for the remainder of the day and week, Hawkins said.

The group has grown over the past year through word of mouth. One lady started attending after she had a heart attack, and another, Sylvia Stark of Vaughan, who participates in annual cycling events, rides her bicycle to the exercise sessions except in bad weather.

"It's a power-packed hour of worship, fellowship, exercise and prayer and truly people are strengthened by it," Hawkins said. "They leave armed to go to work for the Lord and to serve."

Leaders with a Kingdom Mindset

Dr. Michael R. Smith
Chairman AIM

Michael R. Smith

The Christian leader is essential in setting the spiritual mindset of a local church. Therefore, it is vitally important to know what is on the leader's mind. Does the leader have a biblical worldview from which the Kingdom of God is becoming a personal reality? The Kingdom of God is what Jesus Christ announced at the beginning of his earthly ministry (Mark 1:14). Michael D. Miller writes, "The kingdom of God is the reign of God through Jesus Christ in the lives of persons as evidenced by God's activity in, through, and around them."¹¹ Church leaders must be Kingdom minded persons who seek to be informed and guided by the divine values of the King of Kings, Jesus Christ. In essence, the Kingdom minded leader has grown to be a loyal servant who is consumed with the desires of the King. Yet, there are serious challenges a leader faces today.

Harry Blamires in his classic book, The Christian Mind writes, "But as a thinking being, the modern Christian has succumbed to secularization. He accepts religion – its morality, its worship, its spiritual culture; but rejects the religious view of life, the view which sets all earthly issues within the context of the eternal..." Within some churches there is a drought in regard to Kingdom minded leaders. These are churches that for the most part have been infiltrated and overrun with leaders whose passion is not for the glory of the King of kings. I call this type cultural leaders because they are more concerned about following the culture than promoting and pursuing the Kingdom of God.

¹¹Michael D. Miller, Kingdom Leadership A Call to Christ-Centered Leadership, (Nashville, Tennessee, Convention Press, 1996),
